but these include marriage contracts and deeds of settlement. A great deal therefore still remains to be done even in this register and the remaining records in the Court House at Inveraray. But the present Volume indicates what these and similar registers contain, and it may be said that no Argyleshire family of Campbell is unrepresented, and that not a few hitherto unknown and unattached members of the Clan are for the first time brought to notice here. It only remains to acknowledge that thanks are due to Baron Luttwitz, who claims descent from Colin Campbell, Bailie of Tiree, and who shared the cost of the examination of this register, and to Mr. B. M. Wright, Sheriff Clerk Depute at Inveraray, for his courtesy and kindness to the Editor and his son during their several visits thither for the purpose of making these Abstracts. The Index is also the work of Mr. Henry Paton, junior.

INTRODUCTION.

THIS Volume is the first of a series which it is intended to publish from the large collection of Campbell information gathered from public and private record sources by Sir Duncan Campbell of Barcaldine and Glenure, Baronet, for the purpose of providing materials for the construction of accurate and reliable memoirs of the various branches of the Clan Campbell. Until such materials are provided, it is an impossible task to write such histories, but the effort to supply these is a heavy strain both on the time and the resources of a single man. A great deal has been done, but as much and more still remains to be overtaken, and would soon be accomplished if the like enthusiasm and interest were shared by other representatives of the great and widely ramified Campbell Clan.

As the cradle of the Clan, Argyllshire may justly be expected to yield from its record treasuries the most copious and interesting information, and hence a beginning has been made with the Sheriff Court Books at Inveraray. By these are meant only that portion of the records in the custody of the Sheriff Clerk there known as the Probative Register of Deeds, besides which there are judicial and other records and innumerable unarranged papers. Moreover, it is only a portion of this Register of Deeds that has been dealt with and noted in the following pages. It commences in 1689, and continues through nearly thirty goodly volumes to the close of last century. These volumes are full of deeds of various kinds relating to Campbells, and the first eight, to 1724, have been with regard to this name fully exhausted, except that mere cases of the protesting of bills were disregarded. From Volumes 8 to 18 inclusive only a selection of the more important deeds were made.
